a Division of AHF

This presentation brings together providers and TGNB experts to provide resources centered on building change through a series of pathways including:

1. Upskilling information that empowers providers to increase the quality of care they provide to the TGNB communities.
2. Leveraging the cohort model of an LC to build connections amongst LC participants and panelists to champion, build skills, and sustain progress towards system change.
3. Centering the lived experience of TGNB on educating providers, modeling skills for providers on the critical importance of listening to the voices of the communities they serve as the experts on the care they need.

Learning Objectives:

Upon completion of this session, participants will be able to:

1. Name at least two steps on how to leverage identity consultants to create meaningful and impactful programming and services.
2. List two tools of promising practices to increase access to gender-affirming services for transgender and gender non-binary communities.
3. Identify at least two capacity building assistance strategies to engage transgender and gender non-binary communities in a culturally responsive manner.
